

Creators Guild Co., Ltd.

<http://www.cguild.com/>

Creators Guild was established in 2000 as an outsourcing organization of highly qualified members to carry out content production operations for design, planning and editing. Later, as companies increasingly became more involved in disseminating information themselves via platforms like Web sites, the need for content production increased. Creators Guild meets those needs by providing comprehensive support services from planning proposals to production support and ongoing management.

In particular, the company has recently expanded its operations in the fields of both design capabilities and systems development, given the increasing importance being attached to content that combines network technologies like blogs, CMS, SEO, and wireless networks.

The special feature of Creators Guild is its ability to put together teams of highly qualified members based on the details of the project, by assigning exports from its pool of registered creators and partnered productions. This provides clients with work that is always novel and creative, while giving creators the opportunity to work on a wide variety of projects. Creators Guild is a flexible creative agency with more than 5,000 creators to meet the needs of all types of projects from design to systems development.

The Creators Guild Web site shows the varied and colorful portfolios of its graphics-related members. This increases opportunities for creators.
